Iced dreams

Those masterful people at Paul's have done it again. Anticipating record temperatures in the UK this summer, the London-based patisserie is launching a range of decadent ice-creams and sorbets. Exotic flavours such as Mangue Vanille (mango and vanilla) and classics such as Chocolat Noir (dark chocolate) have been created under the guidance of French, award-winning ice-cream maker David Wesmaël. The range has nothing artificial and focuses only on the best ingredients. Available in-store or in 250ml or 500ml tubs to take away, priced from £2.
